Facts And Fancies

Frank Fairborn, Jr.

OUR WONDERFUL WOMEN

"The Female of The Species, Is More Deadly Than The Male".

Thus wrote the late Rudyard Kipling. Good Old Rudy. He didn't know the half of it. He did not have an opportunity to know women as they are today. His demise, even at a ripe old age, did not give him a chance.

In his playboy and his few brief American years, he would know women of that type and Age. Then in his domesticated years he knew the women of that Age.

And knowing them through those Ages I believe he was quite correct in writing the above quoted metre.

But he did not know the women of the war years. 1914-18—1939-?

He did not know the women of the Empire and their marvellous work in the Great War.

He cannot now know the work of the women of Britain and the Colonies in this war. He probably in all his years, never heard tell of Grimsby, Canada and its noble women.

When he penned those famous lines I do not suppose that he ever thought that the day would come when the "Female of The Species" would be a deadly coil wrapping itself around the throats of Hitler, Mussolini, Hirohito and their vacuum minded followers.

In all the Empire, I believe the most "deadly species" of the sex are to be found right here in Grimsby and North Grimsby.

I have gone through two wars with them, also many other critical situations, and I never found them wanting. In fact at times I have found them leading the Strong Male.

In the Great War, the achievement of Grimsby women, in my estimation, surpassed the heroic work of our gallant men. Each to their own sphere, of course.

In this present conflict, nobody but Our Maker will ever be able to estimate how "deadly" to the Axis they have been and will continue to be until the final shot is fired.

Great-grandmothers (positive fact) Grandmothers, Mothers, daughters, right down to the little toddlers, have been going great guns for over three years, collecting money, knitting, sewing and heavens only knows what all, to aid the war effort.

As I watch all the different men's activities being successfully carried on, I often wonder who cooks the meals and makes the beds in a lot of homes. In this regard, an old friend of mine, who comes from the clay of Caistor, whose spouse is an indefatigable worker in all war charities, tells me that he has never missed a meal or slept in an unmade bed through the whole three years. How do they do it?

Grimsby women are not only tireless workers but they have developed an uncanny sense of creation. They can figure out new ideas to extract dollars out of the male, faster than a Dago soldier can run.

If Hitler, in his final analysis, has one jot of realization in his skull, he will say to himself: "Well, it was not the fighting men of the Allies that beat me. It was the women".

Women of Grimsby, Kipling may have been right, at that, but to me you are still the sweet, lovely, angelic creatures that you have always been.

ANOTHER BRIGHT IDEA

Ottawa has come out with a new suggestion, not yet law, eliminating "Dear Sir" and "Yours truly" from business letters to save typewriter keys and paper.

We think some of these wiseacres who have been given temporary wartime jobs, must burn the midnight oil, drafting new idiotic things to save.

If some of them could occupy an Editor's desk for about one week and see the amount of useless mimeographed material, touching on everything from inexpensive hog fodder, to saving hair-pins, which emanates from Ottawa, they would probably learn a few practical lessons on how some worthwhile savings could be made.

We would suggest that if the government has any concrete ideas about saving, it should toss out about three-quarters of the so-called publicity experts who have esconced themselves in Ottawa at fat salaries, since the war started.

Some of the big brown envelopes which come in an avalanche from all departments of government, contain material of value to the average Editor, but much of it is useless and worthless. People are required to write it, others to type and mimeograph it, clerks must mail it and the Editor's time is taken up in opening the envelope together, with a certain amount of energy in heaving it toward the yawning waste-basket.

Sometimes, we think the commodity needed most at Ottawa, is good common "horse-sense". It would appear that more money could be saved by turning the efforts of some officials to useful channels, than the cost of all the typewriter keys ever made.

The recent order in Ottawa in which it was suggested that various departments should try to curtail interdepartmental correspondence, by saving on desk pins and paper clips, was another extremely weak attempt at economy.

Some of those responsible for using too many pins are probably drawing down salaries twice what they're worth. The cost-of-living bonus received by Civil Servants in most cases covers their income tax.

There are a hundred ways of saving other than eliminating "Dear Sir" and "Yours truly" from business letters.

GERMANS AND GENERALS—

General Wavell's recent choice of the world's half-dozen greatest generals, says the Christian Science Monitor, is particularly interesting because it does not include the name of a single German of the last hundred years, in spite of the fact that this eminent British soldier recognizes that modern Germany is probably the greatest militarist power ever known.

General Wavell places the American, Robert E. Lee, on a level with Napoleon, though regarding him as rather more of a gentleman than the celebrated Corsican; adding also the names of Frederick the Great of Prussia and the Duke of Wellington.

Leading these four, in General Wavell's opinion, are the two greatest soldiers the world has yet seen—Winston Churchill's ancestor, the Duke of Marlborough, and the famous Byzantine, Belisarius.

The reason for the omission of modern German generals like Ludendorff is that German victories are characteristically the result of close organized staff work, and that no recent German has shown himself capable of standing up to a test that the British, for example, surmount—the test of disaster.

General von Ludendorff acknowledged himself beaten in 1918 with startling speed; and it will be extremely interesting to see what the present German Government will do when it finds its country in a position as serious, from the military point of view, as was that of the United Kingdom in the early summer of 1940.

Penned and Pilfered

It is pretty good advice to shop early for Christmas this year, with the possibility that in some lines there may be no shopping at all.

The drastic changes that the war has brought about already in the "way of life" of the average Canadian, are indicated in the Canada Year Book for 1942, just issued by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics. The wartime prices control system that has been "a distinctly Canadian contribution in the economic field, not only for wartime but probably for the post-war period also," is the subject of one of the special articles. Manufacturers, external trade, agriculture, forestry, mines and minerals, later, currency and banking, power, transportation—all are under the influence of the world conflict. British guest children, and refugee immigration have come to the Dominion as a result of it.

At this season of the year when our thoughts are about the Creator of this Earth, we naturally think about the Men and Women, since Time begun, have fought to keep what that Creator gave us.

We of the First Great War, fought for that Liberty and Freedom that it gave the world.

Now, our Sons and Daughters are fighting for the same cause. We of the First Conflict must help them as well as taking care of our Comrades, the wives and children of Comrades who have "Gone West".

We have been very successful in this work, thanks to the generosity of the people of the whole district from Vineland to Winona, and south to the Haldimand line. It was your money that made it possible for the Legion to do the work that it has been able to do.

A Good Resolve

"I will honour Christmas in my heart, and try to keep it all the year."—Dickens.

Shepherds Abiding In The Field

Don't let Christmas Eve pass without gathering the household together and reading the story of the First Christmas either from the second chapter of the Gospel of St. Matthew, or the second chapter of St. Luke. Or if you have no household, read it anyway.

Poinsettia

Poinsettia is the answer to our longing for colour to brighten our rather sombre Christmas greenery. It is a native of Mexico, and was first introduced to the northern world by Joel Roberts Poinsett, United States Minister Plenipotentiary to Mexico, in the year 1828.

It belongs to the spurge family. We are all acquainted with sun-spurge, that green-blossomed "weed" that haunts sandy gardens. From a small beginning, the poinsettia has attained wide popularity, and has come to be as much of a Christmas decorative plant as holly, ground pine and mistletoe.

In the southern United States poinsettia grows out of doors the year around, often to the height of a small tree. Naturally, you couldn't expect everybody to take kindly to a name like that, so they changed it to suit themselves; that's why you sometimes hear it called lobster flower and Mexican flame-leaf.

The yellow rosette in the centre of the scarlet leaf bracts is the true flower.

The First Time

It was Queen Charlotte, consort of George III, who introduced the first Christmas tree into England. But the fashion did not take on, and it was not until 1840 that the Christmas tree was again seen, and then it was re-introduced by the Prince Consort, who, by the way, became engaged to Queen Victoria on the morning of Christmas Day, 1838.

James I was not a very popular king, but there is one good thing in his favour. It was he who made turkey a popular Christmas dish. In those days the boar's head was the Christmas joint, but James hated pork as savagely as he did tobacco, so his cooks substituted turkey and the bird never fell out of favour.

It was the Jesuits who first imported the turkey from America. They reared the birds on a large farm near Bourges, in France, and from there they spread all over Europe.

Wynkyn de Worde, who was a pupil of the famous Caxton, published the first book of carols, but no one knows who wrote the first Christmas carol.

Have You Found It?

To become imbued with the true spirit of Christmas, one can't do better than to read Charles Dickens' books. There are enough of them so they can be spread all through the year. Washington Irving's Bracebridge Hall and The Sketch Book belong to the Christmas season, too, especially if they are profusely illustrated with the quirky little pen and ink drawings of the original editions.

One of the finest of the many fine things Dickens wrote about Christmas was the last chapter of The Seven Poor Travellers, entitled The Road, at the end of his book of Christmas Stories. In some editions the book is called A Christmas Carol and Other Stories.

Up at Uncle Dan's it was a traditional custom for the family to gather round the fire on the evening of Christmas Day while Uncle Dan read aloud from A Christmas Carol, and we all listened breathlessly to the adventures of Scrooge, Bob Cratchit and Tiny Tim and the final conquest of good over evil. As we parted for the night, not one of us children but was firmly convinced that no manner of harm could ever befall us if only we kept good and kind.

Simplicity Is Password

The turkey, with its "fixings" is perhaps the centre of interest at the Christmas dinner, but at least for the younger members of the party. Other decorations this year should be simple and inexpensive as extra money should go into war savings. The centerpiece and place cards in this picture were made at home for a trifling outlay. Red candles of varying lengths (some of them left over from last year) were grouped in the centre of the table, and the low candlesticks were concealed in a base of cedar twigs with a few silvered pine cones. The candle-place cards were the result of an evening's work with crepe paper, scissors, a pot of paste, cardboard and yellow paper. The latter, tightly rolled to pencil thickness, with a twist representing the flame, shaped the candle which was then covered with red crepe paper and set on a covered cardboard base. Tiny sprays of cedar and narrow name cards added the finishing touch, and the effect of the completed table was festive indeed.

Christmas Wedding Quilt

Just as we were dashing back to work after lunch to-day, Miss Mallow from next door hailed us to come on over, she had something to show us.

And so she had. It was the cheeriest quilt you ever saw, not even excepting the ones at the Ex. two years ago. Bright red leaves applied on a white ground, it was. A white block with red leaf and a red block with white leaf. Miss Mallow took us patterns, she told us, the leaves of native trees gathered from around home, or on her journeyings round about the countryside.

The leaves were first carefully traced on stiff paper, with veinings correctly outlined. There were two of each kind of leaf cut out, one red, the other white. The blocks were put together diagonally, red block and white alternating, making a much more attractive quilt than if laid in straight rows. It was bordered with red maple leaves, grass laid in straight rows. It was bordered with red maple leaves, grass laid in straight rows. It was bordered with red maple leaves, grass laid in straight rows. It was bordered with red maple leaves, grass laid in straight rows.

The quilting design followed the leaf pattern on each block. It's to be a Christmas and wedding gift to her niece Janet, the one with the soft brown eyes and bright brown hair. She's to be married the day after Christmas to one of the boys who lived just across the street from her mother's house. Janet and her sisters and the four boys opposite grew up together, and a stranger couldn't tell where one family began and the other left off. The husband-to-be is now an army doctor. Miss Mallow is entertaining the young couple on Christmas Day. Quietly, because neither has any taste, or desire, for wild excitement, and at present prefer their own company. The doctor has to report back on duty on Monday.

We're dated to go over to-night to Miss Mallow's to help put the finishing touches on her Christmas packing, for she has scads of nephews and nieces of all ages and sizes to remember, and her house is headquarters for the whole clan.

Away Back When

Frank Fairborn, Jr.

BEING willing to sing and play and mingle with grown-ups is what got us the job in the first place. We could sit with our mouth open wider, when a solo was being sung or a piece played, than any one else in the Sunday school. This posture of relaxation was often mistaken for rapt attention and a mild form of hypnosis. It is comforting to recall that a sort of stupid stare . . . which we have not ever since been able to get rid of . . . has many a time served us better than the wisest looking physiognomy.

The Organist of the Church got the Music Committee to engage us as Organ Pumper. We knew the church liturgy pretty well . . . and as the organist pointed out . . . we understood the fundamental principle of organ pumping which was providing wind. So now we are hired and on the job. The pay that went with it did not nearly compensate for the ignominy that attended our subsequent dismissal. Read on.

The organ is pumped from behind a curtain thru which the choir comes on its way from the ante-room to the seats surrounding the organist. One had to be very quiet behind there, which we instinctively were. You could almost hear the perspiration drop on the floor. The pump handle is the end of a long piece of canting (sometimes called two by four), attached to the bellows of the organ . . . away inside it somewhere. The handle protrudes about three feet thru the organ wall. This is what you pump. On the wall in front of you is a whetstone with a string on it. The string . . . which we were told is attached to the bellows also . . . comes thru the wall and lifts and lowers the whetstone according as the bellows is full or empty. We had a scratch on the wall at both extremes, like a gauge, and that is what we went by.

It was impossible at certain times to keep the wind up . . . that is to say it went down faster than we could produce it. The explanation is that in a hymn like "Rock of Ages" which was sung frequently then, there are soft and loud passages. If we can remember so far back, there was a verse that commenced "While I draw this fleeting breath." The organ played very softly . . . that didn't take much wind. But presently comes the world, "When I rise to worlds unknown." The organist pulls out all the stops . . . one had Fortissimo on it . . . and down would go the whetstone on the wall. We gave the old handle the works but it took all the wind we had and then some.

Now the best part of the job was sitting out in the ante-room during the sermon. In these quiet periods of self education we would examine the works of Ingersoll (not the watch but Robert), or any other that happened to be part of our reading at the time. This early evidence of impiety may account for the taint with which we are touched. Occasionally our readers perceive traces of it and write to the editor . . . and so they should. Nothing will whip us into submission sooner than this sort of Shillalah.

If the evening were warm and the air redolent of lilacs . . . we would untie one of the farmers' horses in the church shed and take ourself out for a little buggy ride. The reason we went by ourself was the lack of time and opportunity to pick anyone else up. The end of it all came one exceedingly stormy Sunday night. It was summer and the air was full of electricity. We had been reading about electricity . . . but couldn't understand it . . . and concluded that some snap shots of lightning might serve us in subsequent research. So during the sermon we got out on the Sunday school roof with our little $2.00 kodak. It was the darndest thing trying to get the focus and snap the picture by the time the flashes of lightning came and went. And the crashes of thunder were a bit upsetting.

However time went on as time does. The parson finished preaching and announced the closing hymn. We didn't even hear the strident seats as the congregation bowed. The organist pulled out all the stops and bore down on the pedals and keys. He thought about everything else that might have been the matter before he thought that maybe we were "be-calmed" . . . so reliable had we hitherto been . . . providing wind. Our bass soloist, the late Mr. Paul, looked behind the curtain and then leaped like a panther on to the pump handle. We . . . out on the roof . . . were restored to the solemnity of the service by the strains of "Come ye maddened where'er ye languish . . . Come to the merry seat, fervently kneel."

All thru our life we have had a strict sense of devotion to duty . . . in this instance our duty was to pump the organ. We had fallen down on the job. The organist asked us what had happened. We are naturally truthful. We told him. We made the parting easy for him . . . We didn't feel justified in testing the church's mercy.

Largest Mess Hall In North America

Opened at Exhibition Camp—
Capable of Feeding 7,000
Men at One Sitting in 20 Minutes.

Webb Hall, the newest and probably the largest Army mess hall in North America was formally opened this week at No. 2 District Depot in Toronto.

The General Exhibits building during pre-war C.N.E. days, the new mess hall is capable of feeding 7000 men in twenty minutes. From the time the men enter until they have finished their meal and left the hall, the elapsed time is thirty minutes.

Colonel R. Webb, Assistant Quartermaster General and Catering Officer at National Defence Headquarters in Ottawa conceived the tremendous project and it is after him that the hall is named.

Lieut. Arnold Taylor, messing officer at No. 2 District Depot has sixty cooks working to prepare three meals each day. It takes 400 table orderlies to wait on the 7,000 who are served from food trucks wheeled up and down the aisle.

The layout of the hall is based on centralization. The kitchen, containing the most modern equipment, is in the exact centre. A control tower near the kitchen serves as a vantage point from which the messing office can supervise the meal and direct food where it is required.

There is a loudspeaker system over which orders can be given to the various departments that make up the mess, — the meat room, vegetable room, bread room, ration room, kitchen and the dining hall proper.

In the kitchen itself there are huge waterless cookers, modern ovens, meat cutters and bread cutting machines that are capable of forty hundred loaves in one hour.

The following enormous quantities of food are used in a day: 5200 lbs. of beef, 875 lbs. of butter, 600 gallons of milk, 14000 eggs, 66 bags of potatoes and 1150 pigs.

All dishes are washed with the latest sterilizing equipment. There are sixty three thousand pieces of china washed each day.

The saving in time and money is one of the attractive features of the hall. It is equivalent to nine standard mess halls. Because of this the amount of equipment normally needed to equip nine mess halls is reduced and the consequent saving in money amounts to sixty per cent.

A person has climbed the ladder of fame when he tells the newspaper photographer what to do instead of the photographer telling him.

in England. "The best thing I saw that day was the white cliffs of Dover as I glided toward them. It wasn't my good flying that got me home that time but the good flying of the squadron protecting me," he remarked.

Flight-Lieut. Merritt is a fighter pilot and flew a Spitfire during his entire 16 months overseas. One of the planes he regularly flew was the Spitfire presented to the R.C.
A.F. by the Frontiersmen of Canada. His last operational flights were made over Dieppe on August 19, the day on which the Canadian troops made such a gallant showing there. Other than to say that he was over Dieppe on three flights that day, he refused to disclose anything about the "show."

For two and one-half months before leaving England he was a test pilot for super-marine Spitfires.
His baptism of fire came during the attack on the German warships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau. Part of his operational work, he said, was providing escort for United States Flying Fortresses on their raids over enemy territory.

He got a big surprise when his sister, Miss Ruth Merritt, who is attending Toronto university, walked up to him at Toronto Union station on Saturday night. Her parents had telephoned her and told her what train he would be on. She accompanied him home.

A former member of the Bell
Telephone staff in Hamilton, Flight-Lieut. Merritt is well known throughout the district. He graduated as a sergeant pilot at Uplands in August, 1941, and was commissioned as a pilot officer just before going overseas the same month. In June of this year, following one of his thrilling exploits,
he was given the double promotion
to his present rank.

Air Mail Confined To Armed Forces

The increasing demand of trans-Atlantic aircraft capacity for vital War supplies has created an almost complete absence of space on aircraft. Conditions have become so acute in recent weeks that practically all correspondence prepaid at air mail rate has had to be de-patched from Canada to Great Britain by ship.

The same situation has obtained
as regards the despatch of air mails from the United States and also in the reverse direction from

Great Britain to both Canada and the United States.

In these circumstances the Canadian public are advised by the Post Office Department to use the Air-graph service for messages to civilians and members of the Armed Forces in Great Britain and other places to which this service is available.

A limited amount of space has been reserved on aircraft for Armed Forces Air Letters which will be accepted and despatched by air subject to space being available.

Sawdust has been used successfully by one Canadian motorist to fill a worn-out tire.

RECORD TIME BY

Commission had not been paid, but would be before the end of the year. He also mentioned that a report had been received a few days ago from the Provincial Board of Health wherein the quality of Grimsby water was graded as first class.

Maintenance cost in all branches of the Waterworks System this year had been considerably less than in previous years and this accounted for the increased revenue counted for the year. This in spite of the fact that several of the larger water consumers had used less water this year.

A bylaw regarding the Soldier's Plot in Queen's Lawn cemetery by 128 lots or a total lot size of 256, was passed. The agreement between the Town and the Cemetery Fund for the payment of the cost of all these lots and the creation of a perpetual care fund was also ordered signed.

County Road 10, from the town this year amounted to $1,665.66, which is $1,400 more than last year.

Armand Hummel was appointed Relief Officer for the year 1942-43. Relief accounts for November amounted to $71.31.

Council intend to buy in any properties put on sale at the adjourned tax sale on Monday, December 1st.

A. J. Chivers, Chairman of the Board of Health, was granted $25.

Several merchants having gone out of business in recent months, rebates on business tax and cigarette licenses were granted by council.

Town received a cheque from Magistrate Campbell's office for $74, the town's portion of fines collected.

Tax Collector Hummel reported that taxes for 1943 up to November 30th amounted to $78,632.43. Taxes this year are better than 90 per cent collected.

The following Christmas card was read at Council meeting on Tuesday night:

His Worship the Mayor, the Reeve and Members of the Grimsby Town Council and all the Staff—

A MERRY CHRISTMAS

"VANCE"

(V. R. Farrell, Capt., Canadian Dental Corps, Overseas)

Police Chief Turner reported, that for the past 30 days up to December 15th, there had been no court cases; one stolen car recovered; complaints investigated, 40; transients over night, 12; collected for Humane Society six dogs, eight cats; dog tax collected, $10.00.

Council passed a motion that New Year's Greetings be sent to Capt. (Reeve) Vance Farrell, on active service, overseas.

Deputy Returning Officer and Poll Clerks at the various subdivisions were appointed as follows: J. K. Harstone, Burton Bentley, T. E. Mannell, Alex C. Stewart, A. F. Hawke, Clara F. Schwab, Frank Russ, Margaret Allan, W. E. Cullingford, Gladys Farrell. General accounts amounting to $2,403.95, were ordered paid.

Mayor Johnson reported that the Library Board had held its last meeting of the year and that everything in this connection was in first class condition.

Councillor Anderson gave a report of a recent visit that he had made to the County Home and was high in his praise of the manner in which the home is conducted by Superintendent and Matron Comfort. The only criticism he had to make was the low salary that County Council pay Mr. and Mrs. Comfort.

A motion reading as follows was passed: "That this council be in accord with the motion made by the city of Toronto council which is attached and do take action and request the Federal and Provincial governments to establish a Royal Commission to examine and report ways and means for the security of every citizen from fear and want in Canada."

Baker-Lothian: "That this council assist the Third Victory Loan to the amount of $46.00 to help pay a part of cost in the splendid parade held on October 26th." Motion was lost by a 5-3 vote.

In pre-war days the U.S. fishing industry ordinarily used about 1,600 long tons of tin annually.

Golf is the third most dangerous sport, says a statistician. Maybe it's due to the fact there are so many golf widows.

N.P. Fruit Growers Elect New Officers

Ernest Culp Vineland Station is President For 1943—Annual Convention Will be Held Week of January 11.

The annual meeting of the Niagara Peninsula Fruit Growers Association was held Monday afternoon at St. Catharines with President Gordon Hunter presiding.

The amended constitution and bylaws, read by H. L. Craise, chairman of the committee for revision, were adopted with one minor change.

Reports were given by Ernest Culp, chairman of the basket committee, who reported that considerable committee work had been done in an experimental way with a new type of six-quart basket and a liner but due to the fact that tarlatan became more plentiful in the latter part of the season very few shipments were made with the new material.

Geo. Anspach, Toronto, fruit wholesaler, reported his experience with leno vs Fox basket and also the open top basket. The open top basket, he thought, was very much more popular this year than the leno covered. He was strongly of the opinion that we must get away from the leno covered basket, and others present agreed that the colored tarlatan which was used during the past summer rather detracted from the appearance in color of the fruit.

H. L. Craise stated that the supply of tarlatan would likely be sufficient for 1943, according to the information he had to hand. Mr. Craise also reported on the meeting with the Warth's Pri. and Trade Board at Ottawa, stating that the Federation of Agriculture had been asked to sit in to give advice with regard to the whole matter of food production for the coming year. This brought out the matter of manpower, especially on the farms, 240,000 sons and farm hands having enlisted to date.

At the conclusion of the regular meeting, the directors met and elected the officers for the coming year as follows:

President, Ernest Culp, Vineland Station; 1st vice-president, George Lewis, Winona; 2nd vice-president, Walter Fisher, Queenston; secretary-treasurer, E. F. Neff, St. Catharines. Additional directors to complete the executive: J. J. Smith, Winona; H. L. Craise, St. Catharines, No. 3; auditor, Joseph Watson, St. Catharines, Ont.

Provisional plans were made for the annual convention of the association to be held during the week of January 11th, it being decided at the annual meeting that the program, and dates be left in the hands of the executive but that the convention will be held at Victoria Hall, Vineland.

Ernest Lampman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Lampman, Calistow Centre. The bride wore a dress of delicate blue; the couple were unattended. Following the ceremony, the mother of the bride held a re-

Bowlers To Hold Turkey Roll

A meeting of the Grimsby Five-Pin Bowling League will be held tomorrow night (Friday) at the barber shop of Art Forester, to discuss plans for the coming turkey roll which will be held on Tuesday night, December 22nd. A system of handicaps is on the agenda of this meeting so to give the bowlers with a low average over the first series a chance to come up on equal terms with the good bowlers. All those anticipating to enter the roll are asked to their team captain before this meeting. All team captains are asked to be present.

A successful card party was held after the regular meeting of Alexina Rebekah Lodge, December 8th.
Prize winners of the evening were:
Bridge—1st prize, Miss May Crittenden; 2nd prize, Mrs. H. Wilson.
Euchre—Ladies' first, Mrs. Forester; Consolation—Miss Joyce which all members are invited will be held after the next meeting,

Christmas Seal Sale

Secretary Mrs. Thomas Gammage reports collections to date amounting to $193.45. This is slightly below collections of the same date last year, but the president, Mrs. H. E. Farrell, expresses confidence that the friends of the San. in Grimsby will see to it that the final returns are equal to, if not greater, than they were last year.

Remember to slip that dollar bill (perhaps two) into the envelope that is waiting for it, and drop it in the post office this week.

Bible Week

For a unique exhibit, look in the window of Model Dairy next week.
In connection with Bible Sunday, which will be duly observed in the churches of Grimsby on December 27th, the local branch of the Upper Canada Bible Society is arranging a most interesting display picturing the work that is being done by that body.

One of the treasures to be seen is the first minute book of the Grimsby Branch, which dates back to 1854.

The Upper Canada Bible Society is affiliated with the British and Foreign Bible Society, of London,
England, which was founded
March 7th, 1804.

Navy League

With the appointment of Mrs.
Marguerite Coxall, Livingston ave.,
as convener for woollen comforts, and R. D. Colpitts, representing the Baptist church, the organization of Grimsby Branch, the Navy League of Canada, is complete.

Mrs. Harold Johnson, the secretary, 31 Mountain street, will be glad to furnish all particulars, and conveners will be delighted to welcome all interested persons to their groups.

Books, magazines, playing cards,
are urgently needed, and may be left at the office of Harold Johnson. Archie Chivers will be glad of help to send supplies forward at once. All the ships of the Merchant Marine are in need of them, and now Great Britain is asking for a million books! The C.N.R.
forward them free for the League.

St. John's W.M.S.

The Women's Missionary Society
of St. John's Presbyterian Church held their monthly meeting in the church December 12th. A splendid report of the year's work was read by the secretary, Mrs. Burke and Mrs. Larsen conducted the election of officers.

Hon. Pres., Mrs. Taylor-Munro;
President, Mrs. A. Stevenson; 1st
Vice Pres., Mrs. J. Dick; 2nd Vice Pres., Mrs. W. E. Burke; Treasurer, Mrs. J. Dunham; Secretary,

This Time "Heppy" Is Correct

A despatch from St. Thomas, to the Globe and Mail, dated December 11th, is as follows:

Provincial Treasurer Hepburn had an experience today that has him convinced the Federal order restricting passenger travel on buses to 50 miles "is the most ridiculous wartime order to emanate from Ottawa."

Early today Mr. Hepburn was returning from Hamilton by motor in a drizzling rain, when about 20 miles outside of Hamilton he came upon two women, one elderly, standing at the side of the highway. He stopped, and they told him they had travelled as far as the regulations would permit and then had to get off the bus. Mr.
Hepburn took them into his car.
